Build Banners to Protect Darfur

Africa Action has generated close to half a million letters and other forms of advocacy to help stop the genocide in Darfur. While these communications have helped to raise awareness of decision-makers on the issue, and have influenced policy, the genocide continues today. Together, we must find ever new and more creative ways to send a strong message to President Bush and his administration that we won't accept empty promises but instead we demand action by the U.S. to ensure the deployment of an international protection force that can safeguard civilians.

Africa Action continues to invite individuals and communities across the country to send in cloths with red handprints to the Africa Action office. Please paint the community name and state on a canvas and have people add their handprints in a common sign of witness. Feel free to paint your message to President Bush on your banner. At a strategic moment we will deliver the messages to key decision-makers. Please try to send us your banner within the next month to ensure prompt delivery.

Send us your banner today!
Give witness to the genocide in Darfur by writing a message to the President and signing it with your handprints.
