

Key Contacts for Africa Advocacy

---

April 2007

This directory is published soon after the beginning of the 110th Congress, at a time when there is a shift in power of the leadership in the House. The change offers an opportunity for constituent members to interface with Congressional leaders about U.S. policy on Africa. The Senate Majority Leader and the House Speaker must lead this Congress to challenge, as well as partner with, the Bush Administration to address issues that are of priority to Africa.

This publication, produced jointly by the Washington Office on Africa (WOA) and by Africa Action, is a tool to make our voices heard. We must encourage thoughtful debate that leads to actions on issues impacting the lives of people on the African continent.

Directories such as this rest on the premise that we use them to offer divergent and progressive points of view, and to support and encourage policymakers during the process of policy formulation.

There are members of Congress ready to stand with Africa and its people and to advance the vision of partnership between the United States and Africa. The challenge is to focus on the common good, as well as economic development, justice and peace. African issues must figure high on the agenda of the 110th Congress and, at this critical time, there is a need for us to speak with Congressional leaders and their colleagues.

We hope that this directory will help you communicate more easily with your Congressional leaders for the purpose of addressing these important issues.

We gratefully acknowledge the excellent work done by spring interns of the Washington Office on Africa and Africa Action working in partnership to produce this resource and thereby facilitate contact with key policymakers to advance Africa policy priorities.
